

Being A Servant

by Dr. Dennis McCain

A martial artist should be a servant. A servant has the following characteristics and personal responsibilities:

They must serve without special consideration.

They serve with humility and purpose.

They should never be inconvenienced by going the extra mile.

They are more concerned with others than with themselves.

They constantly look for ways to serve.

These qualities should be exhibited at your Taekwondo school. How can we expect to pass on the knowledge we possess, if we cannot express that knowledge in service to others? Learn to serve, because in serving, you become the teacher!
